CHILD DEVELOPMENT AND EDUCATION (CDE) SEMINAR SERIES 2014

Seminar 1: Nurturing Resilience in Children

February 15, 2014 | 8:00 am – 12:00 nn | PLDT Hall, UA&P

Speaker: Dr. Angelito Z. Antonio, Director, SED CDE Program

Participants: School administrators, teachers, parents, guidance counselors, childhood education professionals, community/social workers, students of Psychology and Child Studies

Seminar Fee: PhP 1,000 | Early bird: PhP 900 (until January 3)

Why can some children cope with and survive stressful situations while others break down? Why do some of them manage to deal with very trying circumstances while others fall apart? These challenges, if faced without resilience, can cause them trauma. This seminar shall provide both educators and parents a practical guide for helping young children develop resilience when faced with challenges and adversities at home and in school.

Seminar 2: Math, Science, and Health in the Early Childhood Classroom

April 26, 2014 | 8:00 am – 12:00 nn | PLDT Hall, UA&P

Speaker: Ms. Lexie C. Estacio, Faculty Member, SED CDE Program

Participants: School administrators, teachers and parents of young children, childcare/childhood education professionals, students of Education and Child studies

Seminar Fee: PhP 1,000 | Early bird: PhP 900 (until March 28)

Mathematics and Science are two content areas that are perceived by many as very challenging. This half-day seminar aims to provide participants the working knowledge on the learning objectives of Math and Science in early childhood classrooms. Techniques for developing children's love and interest for Math and Science will be explored. These are essentials for preprimary teachers and other early childhood education professionals in planning, preparing, and implementing developmentally appropriate Math and Science activities for young children.

Seminar 3: Emerging Trends and Approaches in Early Childhood Education

May 24, 2014 | 8:00 am – 12:00 nn | PLDT Hall, UA&P

Speaker: Ms. Gizelle L. Tan, Faculty Member, SED CDE Program

Participants: School administrators, teachers and parents of young children, childhood education professionals, guidance counselors, students of Education and Child studies

Seminar Fee: PhP 1,000 | Early bird: PhP 900 (until April 25)

With today's rapidly evolving knowledge economy and recent educational reforms in our country like K to 12, new theoretical frameworks and trends in childhood education emerged. Hence, this seminar shall provide the preschool administrators and educators with emerging theories and approaches in early childhood education for practical applications in their respective preschools.
