

MESSAGE

My warmest greetings and congratulations to all the Graduates of School Year 2013- 2014. We are proud of your achievement and success.

This year's graduation exercises focus on the theme, "Hindi Natitinag ang Pusong Pilipino," to give honor to the resilience of the Filipino people and their triumph over recent calamities. The world has witnessed the indomitable Filipino spirit at its finest, as how foreign media described our brothers and sisters in the Visayas after the storm surge. Typhoon Yolanda which had brought fear and outburst of emotions became the means to showcase strong values of love, care, compassion and the 'bayanihan' spirit not only from Filipinos but the global community of nations as well.

I challenge our dear graduates to have the same resilience especially in your long journey through life. Lead by example and have the passion and concern to dedicate yourselves for the good of our people. It may appear to be a difficult battle but with selflessness, no challenge is insurmountable and there is no battle that cannot be won. Emerging as winners amidst adversities is what characterizes the youth of today. Your learnings, lessons, competencies and values from our classrooms under the tutelage and guidance of your teachers and school principal would sustain you throughout the years.

The secret of success is determined by the strength of character. The heart leads our mind to action. Hindi Natitinag ang Pusong Pilipino sapagkat ang pusong Pinoy ay may malasakit, taos na nagmamahal at bayani.

My congratulations to all of you!
