Dear Madam:

Greetings!

The Agapay, Kalinga at Kwentong Alay ng mga Pharmaceutico (AKKAP) is a non-profit organization recognized by the College of Pharmacy, University of the Philippines Manila. It is composed of pharmacy students, educators, and professionals who are one in promoting optimum healthcare through emotional upliftment of pediatric patients battling chronic diseases through storytelling. It also aims to inculcate moral values and health concepts among children in communities within Metro Manila. Through our various activities, we have been extending financial assistance to pediatric patients in the Philippine General Hospital Renal Ward.

In keeping with our commitment, this October 15, 2015, AKKAP will hold its 9th Storytelling Contest, bearing the theme, 'Mabuting Asal: Puhunan sa Buhay na Marangal', at the Dr. Emilio T. Yap Auditorium at the College of Pharmacy, UP Manila. This competition will serve as an avenue to impart appreciation of stories written by Filipino authors in Filipino to the participants and audience, who are children from various orphanages.

It has been our aim since our first storytelling contest in 2007 to reach out to more students and expose them to the art of storytelling. In this regard, we would like to request your high office the accreditation of AKKAP's 9th Storytelling Contest. Sending memoranda and the mechanics to elementary and high schools in Metro Manila to invite their participation will greatly help us further promote our objectives.

We are hoping for your kind and favorable response. We would also appreciate communication through the numbers below should the event be accredited. Thank you very much and God bless us all.

Sincerely,

Cornellie M. Basco
